Pull up older posts. Login to post Can you tell me if this particular model is a SMART TV Are you sure on the model number. Conia and Daewoo uses similar kits to TVs. Gopakumar Gopalan Google HDRReady LCD. So if you just need areplcement remote, know your TV model number and you can just replce your old remote. It was recently replaced with a newer TV but when i plug it all back in its not turning on, any thoughts Answer questions, earn points and help others. Anyone know who the OEM manufacturer for conia so that I can. Can anyone help Many Thanks Leighxo Thank you guys!. Can we get replacement remotes. It is footy season It is footy season You need a new remote. For sales enquiries, please contact us on CONIA Australia Pty Ltd. Please help Please help You need a new remote. Some features can only be removed with the remote. You can try unplugging it overnight, worth a try.. Contact manufacturer for assistance For. Hasnt got a Samsung panel as we were told at WOW when purchasing it. Also like other reviewers the sound volume is not that good especially when raining. Digital TV is being rapidly deployed to many country areas and the Conia is breeze to set up in a new area when we stop. It also has a DVD player built in which means the caravan doesnt need a rats nest of cables to connect everything or 3 remotes instead of 1. It also runs off 12V DC around 4 amps which means you can run it off battery power. Volume was a bit on the low side. Had trouble hearing it when we had heavy rain on the roof of the caravan in fact I ended up using the subtitles option. Hi I am afraid I cant be much help, but the Conia 19 TV that we had in our motorhome has since left our possession but we did have problems with the DVD player shortly after purchasing it. It was sent back to the Distributor where they replaced the DVD player itself with an updated version, they said it was a fault with the DVD player itself. <http://www.degrossier.nl/uploads/96-yamaha-fzr-600-manual.xml>

We have a conia LCD TV CLCD1930DSD with build in DVD player Got it for Xmas, played a DVD and now its stuck on DVD. Carnt seem to get it to switch back to the TV stations. Anyone else has this problem. Is there something on the TV or the remote I can press to fix this problem or is it a fault with the TV. Lg Led Lcd Tv Manual Hope its not a fault! Carnt find the insturction manual, does anyone know if the instruction manual is available in pdf form. Rang conica and all you get is we will call you back. Been a week and still no call back, so I rang them again, and they said they will call back. If not, you might need to take it to your closest pebble electronics service centre. Call the 1300 726 642 and ask to see where your closest service centre is Only 1 in NSW, QLD and VIC, take it to them and present your receipt as proof of purchase and to determine if its under warrenty and they should be able to either fix it up for you or replace it with a brand new one. Now if you have any more issues, whim me and ill see what i can do for you. The method of moving between modes is a bit silly on this TV. However, rather than using the center select button you have to use the navigate right button to set the mode. Hi Naguerts, I must admit that it is a bit silly but it is the same with most new tevion LCDs aswell, well mainly the other tevion 19 tlcd19dt1. A bit confusing but once you get the hang of it, youll get use to it. To the OP, give the 1300 726 642 pebbles electronics another go and see they should be able to organise servicing for you. If they still havent called you back yet, whim me and i shall help you out. I have one of these and I have lost the manual. New pokemon hack roms completed. Lg Led Tv Manual I dont use it that much because it is in my caravan. How do you tune in digital tv. I used the source button to select dtv but then on entering the menu I was unable to select the channel area. It searches channels in the analogue area but not the digital. <http://www.lygiacampos.de/img/96-yamaha-vmx-600-service-manual.xml>

I seem to remember that it was not that transparent when I first used it. If someone has a copy of the manual or knows a link where it could download it that would be good. I contacted Conia email area but they just sent back a standard email saying I would be listed as a creditor. That doesn't sound good. Would you like to try it too Please try again later. Any more info on the Samsung panel, eg where did you find out it was a Samsung panel Any more info on the Samsung panel, eg where did you find out it was a Samsung panel Thanks, Does it have decent black levels And thats assuming the Conia ACTUALLY has the Samsung panel. Same for the Soniq in JB HiFi but the picture quality is just awful. Then, theres Kogan who claims a Sammy panel but hes got loads of bad reviews from unhappy buyers. The electronics driving the panel are also crap, so the PQ suffers. Id put my hardearned cash on the Samsung C91. The electronics driving the panel are also crap, so the PQ suffers. These glass sheets are, in fact, manufactured in factories owned by Samsung and LGPhilips. So it is technically true that the panels are made by Samsung. Often, however, the actual panels used by the noname manufacturers to make their displays will be older generation Samsung panels or B or C grade panels that the toptier manufacturers rejected for use in their own tv sets.

<http://gromoga.com/images/canon-copier-troubleshooting-manual.pdf>

In addition to the actual display glass, its the electronics inside that matter things like the internal scalers, etc that determine picture quality also build quality may not be as good, cheaper components. Nevertheless, just because it has a recognised brand on it, does not necessarily mean that it is a better tv. Id put my hardearned cash on the Samsung C91. A little more and that almost double. Of course its better one is almost double in price to the other too! The Sammy C91 and Pana offer great bang for your buck. I think weve heard enough comments here about TVs breaking down to know thats not necessarily the case. Some of us have a budget we have to stick with, Kulfi. I think weve heard enough comments here about TVs breaking down to know thats not necessarily the case. Ie that smartarse comment in another thread and another poor analogy about the Sony Bravia W being akin to an average girl being heavily madeup to look good. Some of us have a budget we have to stick with, Kulfi. No, I don't own a Pioneer Kuro hate plasmas and think Pios pricing model is obscene. Now you know my budget and it's not a big one, otherwise I would've bought it before Christmas. Still waiting for Samsung to get the F81 sorted out. From the owners thread, it doesn't look like they'll make it in time for the Feb 29 cutoff date for the free LCD redemption. I just know how bad it feels to get a piece of equipment dying on you had too many PCs falling apart till I learnt to fix them myself. I'm trying to save people the pain, that's all. To have a dead TV in the middle of all that is the last thing one would want. Yes, big manufacturers produce duds too but at least you have some chance of getting a refund, firmware upgrade or repair. I buy things from KMart, wear clothes from Target or buy food on special from supermarkets just to boost my savings. The RBA just smashed my plans for another few months with yet another interest rate hike and I'm as much of a battler as anybody else.

Highrisk, highreturn or high loss. Maybe I'm just riskaverse and wouldn't mind paying extra to cover it. My opinion on most things TVs included would be consistent. I meant that retailers try to make some TVs look good or jazz them up even if they're mediocre, just so they can get higher margins and rip the customer off. Let's be honest we all know they push items on which they have higher margins. I've seen posts from exsalesmen who admitted it. Go check it out I don't expect it to get a great resale but if it goes and I treat it right. That's be Ok for my needs. Go check it out Sure I've read some horror stories about DSEbranded TVs or Kogans et al but there's been huge threads about mostly happy Aiko or AWA customers too. If breakdown beyond 1.5 years is a concern then isn't that what extended warranty is for. Correct me if I'm wrong but aren't these non manufacturer specific and based on the price range. It was much maligned and subjected to a lot of jokes. Has been moved constantly and moved around between different owners passing through Sydney. Somehow it's made its way back to me where it's being made use of as a spare hosting retro consoles. This forum provides an invaluable service with the information users supply so I'm just trying to contribute constructively like yourself. Analogue Tuner, 1 HDMI Input, 1 year warranty, That's not the case with the Conia so you'll need an extra budget for that. Yes, the analog tuner is a drawback because the PQ is crap and a TV that size begs for a HD signal. This means you can watch 720p and 1080i shows, which is all that is ever going to be available on free TV anyway. Incidentally, my recommended sets like the Sammy C91 also have 1024 X 768 so the Conia has the same resolution. They have burnin or image retention at the very least. Let's say you played Gran Turismo for 2 hours, the speedometer frame from the game will remain there even after you're switched off the PlayStation.

You'll have to watch regular TV or DVDs for 6 hours to get rid of it. Do you really want a plasma then. Please go through the pinned plasma retention topics for other people's opinions first. Yes, the analog tuner is a drawback because the PQ is crap and a TV that size begs for a HD signal. Please go through the pinned plasma retention topics for other people's opinions first. To be frank I was all up for the F81 46 but it seems the price in Perth is not dropping and the budget is also high. I have no plans to get Foxtell or any Satellite Systems. I intend to watch my DVDs, Serials and may be at times TV if there are any good movies. Later I plan to add an Xbox 360 to my collection. I will be using a HTIB for the movies. So to start off with a F81 may be a little too high because I may not need 100hz, Full HD unless I already have the collection, HD DVD Player. I have about few hundred DVDs normal. So am seriously thinking about the necessity. Otherwise it will be the F series because not worth getting a non Full HD with a HD Tuner which cost about close to 2K. I'd rather buy something complete. Indoor antenna quality is just average ! That's my interpretation. It is a plasma. Let's see what this weekend does to me. Thanks for your opinion. Nothing can beat that price. May be a little big for a bedroom but if you like it, maybe you should have it.
